Science Fiction Posters Expected To Be Among Prized Lots In Heritage Auctions' Movie Posters Auction

Sale includes collection by iconic illustrator Bob Peak

DALLAS, Texas (July 5, 2018) – A Star Trek poster by illustrator Bob Peak is expected to compete for top-lot honors in Heritage Auctions' Movie Posters Auction July 28-29 in Dallas.

Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home by Bob Peak (Paramount, 1987) (est. $40,000-80,000) is the largest and arguably the most detailed of all Star Trek posters designed by Bob Peak.

A renowned commercial artist whose greatest acclaim comes from his developments in the design of modern movie posters, Peak's artwork has appeared on the cover of numerous magazines, including Time, TV Guide and Sports Illustrated. The brilliant color used for the evening sky of San Francisco offers stark contrast to the Klingon Bird of Prey flying just over the Golden Gate Bridge.

The 40-by-57-1/2-inch poster is done on illustration board mounted on foamcore, is signed by Peak and comes with a gold frame.

Imaged by Heritage Auctions, HA.com

"Bob Peak was a popular and important movie poster artist who produced a number of posters for various Star Trek films, and this is as dramatic as any of them," Heritage Auctions Vintage Posters Director Grey Smith said. "His subtle portraits of several of the film's primary characters offer an extraordinary balance to the bold images of the sunset and the Bird of Prey. This poster is a large and striking image that would be a significant addition to any collection."

Science fiction fans also will be drawn to **The War of the Worlds** \(Paramount, 1953\). Half Sheet \(22" X 28"\) Style B (est. $20,000-40,000), a rare Style B half sheet that is one of the most iconic and elusive images in the genre. Featuring Martian warship imagery not included in many other posters for the original release of George Pal's powerful adaptation of H.G. Wells' science fiction novel.

Imaged by Heritage Auctions, HA.com

Offered with the same $15,000-30,000 estimate are a pair of posters highlighting films featuring classic superheroes: a six sheet from **The New Adventures of Batman and Robin** \(Columbia, 1949\) and a **Superman** Cartoon Stock \(Paramount, 1941\) one sheet.

The Batman and Robin six sheet spotlights the second serial in which Robert Lowery and John Duncan play the leading roles. This series, spread over 15 chapters, pits the Caped Crusader and Boy Wonder against the Wizard, a villain with a device that can control all motor-driven vehicles remotely. This is a rare poster, the first in this format ever offered through Heritage Auctions.

The Superman one sheet celebrates the decision by Paramount to create a series of cartoons, despite outside interest in making Superman into a Hollywood serial. Under the leadership of Max and Dave Fleischer, Paramount created 17 cartoons, which are widely considered some of the best work to emerge from Paramount's cartoon division. Paramount did not issue individual one sheets for the series, opting instead to create this stock one sheet with a blank imprint area where the individual cartoon titles could be written or printed.

A massive (91-1/4-by-62-1/2-inch) full-bleed horizontal French double grande poster for *From Here to Eternity* carries the same $15,000-30,000 estimate. Featuring artwork by Rene Peron, this auction marks the first time Heritage Auctions is offering this rare poster for the Academy Award-winning masterpiece in this large format. Peron's artwork captures one of the most famous scenes in film history: the passionate clench on the beach between co-stars Burt Lancaster and Deborah Kerr.

Imaged by Heritage Auctions, HA.com

Widely considered to be among the greatest film posters of all time, a Things to Come \(United Artists, 1936\) one sheet (est. $15,000-30,000) was inspired by another science fiction film based on another H.G. Wells-inspired screenplay. The film is based on his 1933 novel The Shape of Things to Come and his 1931 non-fiction The Work, Wealth and Happiness of Mankind. Among the always-rare posters for this early sci-fi epic, this one stands out in part because of the 1930s deco-designed version of the future.

A 27-by-41-inch one sheet from The Lady Eve \(Paramount, 1941\) highlights the transition of stars Henry Fonda and Barbara Stanwyck from Academy Award-nominated dramatic actors into comedy. Based on the story Two Bad Hats, Preston Sturges' adaptation ultimately led to an Oscar nomination for Best Writing: Original Story for author Monckton Hoffe. Despite minor restoration, this poster is sure to appeal to collectors of comedy posters.

A set of four Help! \(United Artists, 1965\) door panels (est. $10,000-20,000) was created for the Beatles' second feature film and is among the rarest of promotional items for the Fab Four. Despite being displayed in the press book, door panels rarely were ordered by theater owners, because so few theaters had adequate space to display them. Even for those that did have the space, the panels were expensive: a full set cost $7.50, while a one sheet cost just $0.15. Sets like this were made even more hard to come by because many sets that were ordered for the film's initial showing were broken up and given away, one at a time, to fans. In addition, Help! is the only Beatles film for which door panel sets were produced.

Other top lots include, but are not limited to:

- **The Jaws of Death** by Unknown \(Cannon, 1976\) Original Acrylic Poster Artwork (est. $12,000-24,000)
- **The Wolf Man** \(Universal, 1941\) Half Sheet (est. $10,000-20,000)
- **Creature from the Black Lagoon** \(Universal International, 1954\) One Sheet (est. $10,000-20,000)

The Star Trek IV poster projected to lead the 927-lot auction is just one of four posters in the sale of posters designed by Peak, a collection that also includes:

- Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan by Bob Peak (Paramount, 1982) Original Mixed Media Concept Artwork: est. $6,000-12,000
- Rocky III by Bob Peak (United Artists, 1982) Original Mixed-Media Concept Poster Artwork: est. $5,000-10,000
- My Fair Lady (Warner Brothers, 1964) Italian Photobustas: est. $800-1,600

Iconic Movie Posters To Go Under The Hammer August 2nd

Unprecedented demand for movie posters seen by Ewbank's

Ewbank's, the UK's leading auction house for movie posters, has added an auction of vintage movie posters on August 2nd due to unprecedented demand. The sale is online and open for bidding now!

Alastair McCrea, Ewbank's entertainment memorabilia specialist, explains: "We have had a record year selling movie posters in terms of both their quality and quantity. As a result, more and more sellers are entrusting us with their collections, which in turn is attracting increasing interest from buyers."

The sale features work by famous graphic artists including Arnaldo Putzu, Saul Bass and Robert McGinnis, as well as posters for iconic films including James Bond film For Your Eyes Only, featuring artwork by Brian Bysouth and illustration by Bill Gold.

Two Bond posters by Robert McGinnis have been consigned for sale, Thunderball released in 1965 and You Only Live Twice from 1967.

Thunderball, starring Sean Connery as Bond, is one of the most valuable lots on sale, with a guide price of between £1,500 and £2,500. You Only Live Twice, also starring Connery, with the famous 'Bathtub' artwork has an estimate of between £800 and £1,200.

McGinnis is a world-renowned award-winning artist, with a 60-year career. He has created artwork for more than 40 film posters, including other Bond films such as Diamonds Are Forever, and Live and Let Die; as well as the classic movies, Breakfast at Tiffany's, The Odd Couple and Barbarella.

McGinnis also created paintings for many magazine articles, and art for the covers of more than 1,200 paperback books, specifically during the pulp fiction boom in the 1960s and 1970s.

Another high value lot is a poster for the seminal 1971 Michael Caine film, Get Carter, which is going on sale with a guide price of between £1,500 and £2,500.

The striking poster was created by Italian artist Arnaldo Putzu, who died in 2012 aged 85, and was regarded as one of the most distinctive illustrators of his generation, who worked on film posters well as book and magazine covers. His eye-catching style was the epitome of popular artwork in the UK thorough the 1960s and 70s.

A one-sheet poster promoting the 1958 Alfred Hitchcock classic horror, Vertigo, is going under the hammer on August 2nd with an estimate of between £800 and £1200.

The minimalist graphic artwork by Saul Bass, inspired a generation of film poster artists, who sought to recreate the simple and bold use of colour and black lines. Bass didn't work on a huge number of movie posters, but many of the posters and title sequences he created have grown to be as famous as the films they were advertising.

Other posters of note in the auction include one for The Man With The Golden Gun, starring Roger Moore, which is on sale with an estimate of between £400 and £600; and another for the 1960 John Wayne film, The Alamo, which carries an estimate of between £150 and £250.

The poster for the 1981 Roger Moore film For Your Eyes Only, which has an estimate of between £200 and £400, features artwork by Brian Bysouth, who had a 40-year career in the advertising industry, before retiring in 2002. Famous film posters he was responsible for include Raiders of the Lost Ark, The Living Daylights and Big Trouble In Little China.

Also offered is the Star Wars (1977) British Quad film poster, Pre Academy Awards, Style C, with artwork by Tom Chantrell, which has an estimate of between £800 - £1,200.

There is still time to consign posters for sale in the August 2nd auction. The team at Ewbank's is available for free sale valuations from 9am to 5pm, Monday to Friday at its Burnt Common Auction Rooms, just off the A3 near Guildford.

MY NEW BOOK: HOOKED ON HOLLYWOOD

Leonard Maltin

It's daunting to realize how long I've been writing about film history and how many fascinating people I've gotten to interview. When the folks at boutique publisher GoodKnight Books asked if I had any material for an anthology I realized I did: a number of interviews from Film Fan Monthly, which I started editing and publishing when I was 15, as well as interviews and research stories from my more recent publishing venture Leonard Maltin's Movie Crazy. None of this had ever been collected in book form before. The result: Hooked on Hollywood: Discoveries from a Lifetime of Film Fandom, just published today!

Television gave new life to veterans like Buster Keaton and Joe E. Brown, as I chronicle in my book.

It's been four years since my last book, the final edition of Leonard Maltin's Movie Guide, and I am genuinely excited about this new venture—in part because I'm working with publishers Robert and Mary Matzen, who treat each project with tender loving care, and because every word in this book is mine. It's my "baby," and I couldn't be prouder.

I've written new introductions to each section to put them into context. "Early Interviews" tells how I came to talk to such luminaries as Burgess Meredith, Anita Loos, Madge Evans, Henry Wilcoxon, Joan Blondell, and George O'Brien when I was just a kid. Imagine sitting in a coffee shop talking about Sunrise with its star more than forty years after the movie was made, or chatting with the woman who wrote screenplays for D.W. Griffith and Douglas Fairbanks when she was still a teenager herself.

Francis Lederer and Ginger Rogers in Romance in Manhattan (1935), one of the obscure movies I review in capsule form as part of a series called RKO Revisited Decades later I created a newsletter where I could write about anything that caught my fancy—from the genesis of Busby Berkeley's Depression anthem "Remember my Forgotten Man" from Gold Diggers of 1933 to the striking number of songs heard on the soundtrack of Casablanca—not just "A Time Goes By." Digging through production files and talking to experts in their field is my idea of fun. A website is a wonderful creative outlet, but there's nothing like holding a publication in your hand. That's why I'm so glad Hooked on Hollywood has come to fruition, in a good-looking, hefty paperback edition.

You can purchase at Amazon, Barnes and Noble, even at brick-and-mortar bookstores from coast to coast. (What a concept!)

I hope you enjoy it. The book represents a lifetime of experiences, which I am delighted to share with fellow film buffs of all ages.

  - * Several vintage posters from the world famous Parisian cabarets (Folies Bergere, Bobino, Casino de Paris)

- * And as always some incredible airlines companies posters: Air France, Alitalia, Pan Am, SAS, Swissair, TWA, United including several from Japan Airlines printed between 1965 and 1968 which I humbly consider to be among the most beautiful from the 60's.

MOVIES: The usual massive and colorful avalanche of posters covering all genres: Animation (Disney and Studio Ghibli), Eurospy (Espionnage), Giallo, Horror, James Bond, Martial Arts, Blaxploitation, Peplum, Samurai (and Yakuza), War and Western, and of course Sexploitation with another assortment of gorgeous ladies from all around the world...

- Ten different personality posters of two of the most beautiful women in the world: Raquel Welch and Brigitte Bardot
- * Many more complete or near complete fotobusta movie poster sets.
- * Brand new Limited edition prints from Mondo and others specialized galleries

Following is a sample of 20 items among the 641 you will hopefully enjoy and purchase...

We start with the impossible to find first edition set of 10 Italian fotobusta posters printed for the James Bond movie I consider to be the best in the series, i.e. Thunderball.

From Bond we move to Bobino, the legendary Parisian cabaret with the poster for Josephine Baker's 1975 farewell shows.

The language doesn't matter, it is the beauty of the image and the emotion it conveys which does... Polish poster for the 1969 drama, Shifting Sands. Design by Maciej Hibner.

Telly Savalas is solely responsible for the lollipops we all sucked a skids watching his baldness in Kojak, the Hit TV series which received a theatrical release in Italy.

BB: Belle as Brigitte Bardot tender and sensual on the very rare German Lobby card of Le repos du guerrier \(Love On A Pillow\).

A unique voice, piercing blue eyes and a smile and gaze both terrifying and seducing...Frank Sinatra on the vintage poster of his 1975 Parisian concert.

Less melodic but a powerful is the soundtrack to Heavy Metal, the cult animated Sci-Fi Musical and its Japanese poster painted by Richard Corben and printed on foil paper!

A brand new dark toned limited edition print by Ken Fitzgerald paying tribute to Fritz Lang's Metropolis.

Michael Kaluta is one of the Masters of Comic Book Art with a unique style inspired by Symbolist paintings and Viennese Secession Art. The 1978 print titled Wedding Guest is now impossible to find.

Raquel Welch is in my humble opinion The most beautiful woman on earth, hence the tens of her posters we carry in the Gallery including many of her personality posters like this one.

Audrey Hepburn, Cinema's prettiest

Sean Connery again on the record sleeve of instrumental group Sounds Orchestral.

Raquel Welch is in my humble opinion The most beautiful woman on earth, hence the tens of her posters we carry in the Gallery including many of her personality posters like this one.

A gorgeous image amongst the many designed by Yusaku Kamekura for the 1972 Sapporo Olympics.

We have added many Japanese Pinky posters included this one featuring a stunning image for the 1966 erotic movie, Mirror Secretary.

No less erotic but more musical is the concert poster designed by Gunther Kieser for Ike and Tina Turner's 1972 German Tour.

Neal Adams' rarest movie posters is without a doubt the one printed for the 1976 rerelease of Bogard, retitled Black Street Fighter.

Among the many WW2 Propaganda posters, this one from 1944, Cette fois ci jusqu'à Berlin (This Time Until Berlin) deserves to be singled out.

Design and watchmaking. Two words which perfectly combine themselves. Proof with the large vintage 1965 Swiss advertising poster for the Oris watches brand.

A gaze, a voice, a lion's hairdo....Marlene Dietrich sublimed by Helnwein for the 2000 German rerelease of the documentary directed by Maximilian Schell.

And we conclude with an image mentioned in the intro, i.e. one of the many posters from Japan Airlines conceived for the 1968 campaign featuring women from all around the world; this one advertising flights to Teheran.
