HERITAGE 's VINTAGE MOVIE POSTERS SIGNATURE AUCTION - NOVEMBER 16-17TH

DALLAS – One of the rarest posters from Universal Studio's golden age of movie monstrosities, a scarce insert for the 1935 horror classic Werewolf of London, could sell for $35,000+ Nov. 16-17 in Dallas. The wide-ranging Vintage Movie Posters Signature® Auction offers 1,100+ diverse lots ranging from original title cards to a fine collection of pre-war travel posters.

"The interesting thing about Werewolf of London is that studio execs thought Jack Pierce's original wolf makeup was too scary to be used on screen," said Grey Smith, Director of Movie Posters at Heritage Auctions. "The makeup was put away until Lon Chaney, Jr., wore a toned down version of it for The Wolf Man, but many movie aficionados believe the makeup in Werewolf of London was much better – and much scarier!"

The auction's top lots may very well be dominated by a rogue's gallery of famous villains and monsters. A rare half sheet from the 1932 bullet-riddled gangster flick Scarface is estimated to sell for $25,000+. The original half sheet is from the earliest known release from the film, which initially had trouble passing censors because of its extreme violence and strong content.

A classic King Kong Style B one sheet depicts the rampaging primate clutching a terrified Fay Wray in his hairy grasp. The poster, with its vivid depiction of a panicked populace and a flaming background, rarely appears at auction and as such it's expected to sell for $25,000+. Another Kong rarity, a massive, 1933 three sheet Style B poster for Son of Kong is among the few to feature the monster himself, is expected to bring $20,000+.

Leading a strong selection of Italian language movie posters is a "2-foglio" for the 1948 The Lady from Shanghai which measures 39" by 55" and features the work of artist Anselmo Ballester. The poster makes its auction debut at Heritage with a $22,000+ estimate. A 4-foglio poster for Federico Fellini's 1960 classic La Dolce Vita could sell for $18,000+. The rare poster rarely appears at auction and this specimen has been professionally mounted on linen to preserve artist's Giorgio Olivetti's daring images.

Early one sheet posters for the silent films of Buster Keaton hardly surface, which makes the appearance of Three Ages, from 1923, just the second time this only-known example has been sold at auction in more than 15 years. It's expected to sell for $15,000+.

Considered one of the greatest movie posters ever designed, a one sheet for This Gun For Hire, presenting bright images of Alan Ladd and Veronica Lake, is also estimated to sell for $15,000+.

A 1936 insert from the first release of The Walking Dead, a Boris Karloff vehicle, marks the first time Heritage has offered an insert from the film. It could sell for $15,000+, as could a 1947 one sheet for Dracula, a rare reissue poster of the classic Universal horror film. A scarce one sheet Style A for the original 1940 release of Walt Disney's Fantasia is expected to hammer for $6,000+. A French double grande poster measuring 62" by 94-1/2" for the 1926 film The Son of the Sheik could sell for $4,000+.

A World War I propaganda recruitment poster with art by Harry R. Hopps depicting a German soldier in the form of a massive, drooling, uncontrollable ape, is estimated to bring $8,000+.

Chamonix travel poster advertising the Paris Lyon Mediteranée Rail Line and featuring the art of Roger Broders could fetch $5,000+.

BONHAMS AND TURNER CLASSIC MOVIES SPOTLIGHT FILM HISTORY WITH LEGENDARY MEMORABILIA

NEW YORK — Bonhams special auction, "What Dreams Are Made Of: A Century of Movie Magic at Auction" as Curated by Turner Classic Movies" to be held November 25 in conjunction with Turner Classic Movies (TCM) will feature over 300 of the finest and most important pieces of movie memorabilia ever to come up for auction. Iconic props, exceptional costumes, notable production art, original scripts, superb posters and incredible ephemera from Hollywood's biggest stars will all be offered.

The auction will star the legendary lead statuette of the Maltese Falcon, from the classic 1941 film noir of the same name. A pivotal character in its own right, the statuette is arguably the most important movie prop ever, and is central to the history of cinema. The statuette has the archival Warner Bros. inventory number and an impressive exhibition history, including appearances at the Pompidou Centre in Paris, The Museum of Modern Art New York, and The Warner Bros. Studio Museum in Los Angeles. Bonhams will present Sam Spade's burgundy leather chair from the same remarkable film, among other Maltese Falcon highlights (est. $150,000-200,000).

The 1940 Buick Phaeton automobile from Casablanca will also be offered (est. $450,000-500,000). The car looms large in the final act of Casablanca, as Claude Rains drives the car to the airport at gunpoint, with Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman and Paul Henreid inside. As a member of the Warner Bros.' fleet, this car also appeared in other films of the era, including High Sierra. It will preview in Los Angeles only, October 22-27.

Scores of iconic costumes will be available, including Steve McQueen's jacket from Le Mans, a 1971 cult-classic in which McQueen stars as race car driver Michael Delaney competing in the famed 24-hour Le Mans race in France (est. $80,000-120,000). A Nautilus diver's helmet from 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea is sure to attract attention (est. $65,000-85,000) as is a cowboy hat worn by John Wayne in several films, including El Dorado (est. $30,000-50,000). Two notable costumes from the Batman franchise will also be up for auction - Jack Nicholson's Joker costume from Tim Burton's 1989 Batman (est. $45,000-65,000), as well as Michael Keaton's Batsuit from 1992's Batman Returns (est. $30,000-50,000).

This auction will also feature a number of great movie posters, including: Two Arabian Knights, 1927 U.S. three sheet; I Married a Witch 1942 U.S. half sheet; Swing Time 1936 U.S. one sheet; The Deadline 1931 U.S. one sheet; 1946 insert for It's A Wonderful Life; and a 1939 lobby card from The Wizard of Oz.

Stills, photographs and original scripts will also be part of this auction. These include stills from: Gone with the Wind; Wizard of Oz; Grand Hotel; The Greatest Show on Earth; The Maltese Falcon; and Godfather II.

Photographs include a George Hurrell portfolio, taken in 1932, with subjects including Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Gary Cooper, Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Marlene Dietrich, Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Rita Hayworth, Katharine Hepburn, Loretta Young and Tyrone Power.

Bogey fans will be thrilled to see the following posters offered at this auction:

"For almost a century, movies have played a central cultural role - telling our most compelling stories, reflecting our greatest hopes and our biggest fears," said Catherine Williamson, Director of the Fine Books and Manuscripts and Entertainment Memorabilia at Bonhams in Los Angeles. "The November 25 auction is a can't-miss opportunity for collectors and institutions to acquire some of the most important pieces of film history ever produced."

Bonhams will present "What Dreams Are Made Of: A Century of Movie Magic at Auction as Curated by TCM" on November 25 in New York. The auction will preview October 22-27 at Bonhams Los Angeles, and November 20-25 at Bonhams New York.

eMoviePoster.com December Major Auction

DECEMBER 1, 2013 AT HTTP://WWW.EMOVIEPOSTER.COM

HORROR/SCI-FI
COLLECTION GETS AUCTIONED

292 ONE-SHEETS, HALF-SHEETS, INSERTS, AND LOBBY CARD SETS!

Part I of eMoviePoster.com's December Major Auction (which runs from November 24th to December 1st) contains a single owner collection of solely 1950s horror/sci-fi (one-sheets, half-sheets, inserts, and lobby card sets), and because this is such a wonderful collection, they have created a complete preview gallery NOW of ALL the 292 items, so that those who are interested in bidding on these items will have quite a bit of extra time in which they can start planning their bidding strategy (and perhaps arranging financing, if necessary!).

Note that this preview gallery includes the lot numbers of each of the 292 items, so you can see the exact order in which they will be auctioned! Not only do they provide you with the exact condition grade that will be on the auction, but you can also click on any image and see the "super-sized" version, so that you can really know the exact condition of each item long in advance of the auction, so you can better prepare your bidding strategy (but the detailed condition descriptions won't be available until November 24th when the auctions officially begin).

However, this gallery does not have any of the other features found in their regular auctions, including the ability to search or sort, but once the items will be listed on Sunday, November 24th at approximately 5 PM CST then you will be able to do all you ordinarily can, including placing bids! This single owner collection truly is a collection of a lifetime!

Go to <http://www.emovieposter.com/online/201312/Decpreviews/?p=1> to start viewing the preview of this remarkable auction!

Remember that the above is just Part I of this remarkable set of auctions. Part II will contain around 500 linenbacked one-sheets, Part III will contain around 500 linenbacked posters that are not one-sheets (all sizes), and Part IV will contain all unbacked items (they may have so many items that are unbacked that they may add a Part V!).

According to Bruce Hershenson: "We know full well that there are many auctions of movie posters and that you have many different places where you can spend your money, so we do all we can to make buying from us as pleasant an experience as possible, and we strive to be as problem-free as possible (and on the rare occasions when there is any sort of problem, we offer true customer service and make certain to resolve the problem to your satisfaction, even if it means we lose money!)."

This set of auctions contains their finest selection in many years. In addition to the 1950s horror/sci-fi collection seen in the gallery above, there are also lots of wonderful other items in the other parts. Here are seven teaser ads showing some of the posters in the other parts.

MACK SENNETT PRODUCTION CODE SORTS

The “King of Comedy” was born Michael Sinnott in Quebec, Canada in 1880, the family moved to Connecticut in 1897. In 1902, Sennett met Marie Dressler and soon afterward decided to go to New York to pursue a career on the stage. After managing several groups, Sennett went to work for Biograph in 1908 to start his acting career. By 1910, he was directing films and worked with film greats such as Mary Pickford, D. W. Griffith and Mabel Normand.

Sennett was financed by New York Motion Picture Co. in 1912 to form Keystone Studios. In 1915, Sennett, Griffith and Thomas Ince formed Triangle Films. At the collapse of Triangle, in 1917, Sennett formed Mack Sennett Comedies and distributed through Paramount, Educational, Pathe and several others. During his life, Sennett acted in 360 films, directed over 300 films and produced over 1100 films.

Sennett Production Codes

The first production codes that we have on record are from Paramount in 1912. A few other companies started adopting the practice of using production codes in the 1914-1915 range and then it slowly spread throughout all major studios.

Mack Sennett production codes can get very confusing because of 2 major factors. 1. Sennett films came in during the development of productions codes so many of his early films did not utilize them. 2. Because Sennett supplied different distributors, most added their own codes as well, creating multiple codes on many of the titles.

In presenting Sennett codes, we have also included as many additional distributor codes from Triangle, Triangle Komedies, Educational, Paramount and other distributors. We present the codes in 2 different sorts – one by the code (image 1 below) so if you have just the code you can find the information, and one by title (image 2 below), so you can see the various codes issued for a particular film.

10	KITCHEN LADY	CLINE	SENNETT-PARAMOUNT	1917
11	SHERIFF NELL'S TUSSLE	CAMPBELL	SENNETT-PARAMOUNT	1918
